

VOCI honors what unites and defines us culturally, historically, architecturally, and environmentally through the urban disciplines and design, utilizing the medium of art to educate.

Youth analyze community through organizing and development, community self-assessment tools and good neighboring practices.

VOCI students identify and choose a local community issue, address it through “what if” scenarios, discussions and visualization, using various art mediums and computer 3-D modeling. Presentation skills are fine-tuned as students’ present issues and solutions before community leaders, residents and professionals.

Your subconscious mind is a twenty-four-hour photographer, recording every item you see. Meaning: you create current experience derived from all your past experience. It is important to your physical and emotional health that the things you see create images in your mind of who you are, or what you want to be. Your environment should reconfirm your identity and the things you want (The Power of Place).

Help VOCI give youth a Happy Childhood.
